Integrated Care
a change for the better

To find out more about integrated care, attend the Baxter symposium on 16th April. Visit our stand for more details.

All your patients are individuals, with individual needs and wants. This is why at Baxter we believe that the different treatment options should be considered as complementary therapies.

The latest research demonstrates the advantages of initiating therapy with PD, followed by a timely referral to HD when the social or clinical need arises. An integrated treatment policy where PD, HD and transplantation are equally available, can improve the survival and quality of life of ESRD patients.

Beyond technology, a spirit of care
